Keep Track of your Publications and Citations

THE VBN-TEAM RECOMMENDS

For you to be as strong as possible when you are evaluated for funding and career, it is necessary, that you keep track of your publications. To harvest "low hanging fruits" and avoid duplicates you can follow a few steps mentioned below.

Keep in mind that your department and university also benefit from strong researcher profiles.

1. Register your publications in Pure. If you are well covered in Scopus, you may set up an import in Pure of publications from Scopus to Pure.
2. Create an ORCID ID and set up export in Pure of publications from Pure to ORCID. Use your ORCID whenever you publish, apply for funding and in other situations where identification of your work is needed.
3. Keep an eye on your profiles in Scopus and Web of Science. Clean up your profiles if necessary.
4. If you are not well covered in Scopus and Web of Science you may use Google Scholar as citation counter. Clean up if necessary.
5. If you are on the Clarivate Highly Cited list (<https://hcr.clarivate.com/>), you may benefit from having a Researcher ID.
